

THE RISING SON.

Wm. Fairfax, Society Reporter.
A. W. Walker, Agent, Lexington, Mo.

Remember please—
It's the little bits we collect here and there
That enable us to run from year to year."

The club known as the Monthly club is not the club that was organized by William Fairfax. It is a new club. The club that was organized by William Fairfax is known as the Silver Leaf Club.

The beautiful linen shirt waist hand embroidered, offered by the Guild of St. Augustine church will be on display at Smith's drug store, 914 East Twelfth street.

Mr. Theodore Clay had a terrible scuffle and fired several shots at a supposed burglar Monday night, which fortunately turned out to be the trespassing of his pet dog Teddy.

Prof. and Mrs. J. Silas Harris will give a concert at Westport next Tuesday night. The proceeds will go to the Penn school for a piano. An excellent program and music. All are invited.

Miss Gerlie Craig of Boon, Iowa, is visiting Mrs. S. I. Lee, at 910 Garfield.

The impression that Dr. J. E. Dibble was responsible for the article appearing in the Journal is incorrect. The writer of the article was Dr. Lee Roy Dibble, a white man, with offices in the New Ridge Building.

The big store of Emery, Bird, Thayer Dry Goods Co. is sometimes termed the Western Emporium of Merchandise. The management of the company is regarded as being the best obtainable.

The motto of the Geo. B. Peck Dry Goods Co. is "Satisfaction." This of itself is an inspiration to a buyer. Mr. Peck has demonstrated his great business worth to the people of Kansas City, and his ability to conduct a huge business.

Mrs. Rebecca White was taken sick March 3, 1903, and died on March 5, 1903. She was ill with complicated sickness. She was a member of St. Halyard tabernacle. She will be buried at Union cemetery. Her funeral will be preached from Asbury chapel. She lived at 626 Cottage Lane.

The big building occupied by the Jones Dry Goods Co. is always crowded with anxious buyers. The management spares neither expense nor pains in its effort to render comfort to the buying public.

The Ladies of St. Pancras Guild are offering as a prize a handsome hand embroidered white linen shirt waist pattern to any lady who saves the largest amount of her spending money by Easter. So get a waist by saving the waste. If you want to know how this is done, ask Smith, the druggist. These savings will be for the benefit of St. Augustine church.

The Oviatt Shoe Company is one of the best and most reliable firms of its kind in the West. The treatment accorded its patrons is such that it is a pleasure always to return. The store carries the best and leading grades and makes of shoes.

The Fifth Sunday, March 29th, will be rally day for the Second Baptist Sunday school. All are cordially invited to attend each service, especially at 3 p. m. At 9:30 a. m., Sunday school; 11 a. m., special sermon to Sunday school by Rev. S. W. Bacote. At 3 p. m. a special program will be rendered by the different Sunday schools of the city. No collection at this hour. At 7:30 p. m., service. Collection.

The Nebraska Clothing Co. of this city, under its present management, is realizing a rapid and steady growth in trade. Its method of business has always been a source of pleasure to its many patrons, all of whom are treated with great courtesy and their wants receive the strictest attention.

PENN SCHOOL SEWING CLASS.

It may not be generally known that at the school located in the southern part of the city there is a large sewing class, composed of all the pupils of the school and conducted by a number of wealthy white ladies living in that section of the city. The object of this class is to better fit our young people for some of the duties that fall upon them by and by. Girls attending the high school are admitted and instructed along with pupils of the grades. Much interest is manifested in the work by both pupils and teachers.

Principal Harris is hopeful that this may be the means of enrolling so large a number of pupils that the Board of Education will build a new school instead of the old shack now in use.

IN MEMORY OF OUR DEPARTED BROTHER, ERNEST E. LEE.

He Departed This Life Monday, March 9.

"A man can die but once—we owe God a death."

While we bow our head in sorrow, and mourn the death of our departed friend and brother, we also bow to the decree of Him who holds the destinies of all nations, races and men, and say, "Thy will be done."

Brother Lee was cut off in the morning of his life, when his usefulness to those who were close to him were just beginning to be felt. In his private life he was just, temperate and faithful to his obligations, in his domestic relations with mother, father, sister and brother, he was what makes home a heaven, to the circle of young men in which he moved and to society, he was a model.

Whereas, It has pleased the Ruler of the Universe to remove from us our beloved friend and brother, Ernest E. Lee, and

Whereas, His taking off in his prime has robbed mother and father of a dutiful son, society of a beautiful character, and the young men of Kansas City a noble example of manhood, therefore, be it

Resolved, That John Turner Lodge heard with profound sorrow the death of our dear brother and feel that his example as a man and a mason is worthy of emulation.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family and a copy to the Rising Son.

His work is done, he now fully realizes,

"After the burden, the blissful mead;
After the flight the downy nest;
After the furrow, the waking seed;
After the shadowy river, rest."

PASSING GLIMPSES.

Senor Sagasta has resigned again. Spain must look upon him as a human cycle. He recurs at irregular intervals.

Torpedo boats are carrying the mail between Marseilles and various ports on the southern coast of France. When a package that service could leave at a man's door!

An exchange remarks: "There is no case on record of a man having committed a crime with a pipe or a cigar in his mouth." What about the man who smokes bad cigars?

The last act of a condemned Canadian was to play a game of ping-pong. A few minutes later he went bouncing out of this world just as if he had already arranged for another game in the next.

The queen of England owns a collection of three hundred clocks, and spends much of her time watching them. Wise queen! Although her fad will not lengthen her regal life, it will make it seem longer.

Wouldn't it be terrible if, after yielding up this noisy life, the whole pack of political orators should find themselves translated into giraffes, armadillos and porcupines? These animals, it should be remembered, are voiceless.

A Missouri judge who left the word obey out of the marriage ceremony took the trouble to call the attention of the couple to the omission. What's the use? Ten chances to one the sweet young bride would not have noticed the word even if he had ruthlessly put on the emphasis.

A FEW ATHLETIC DON'TS.

Don't exercise for an hour, at least, after meals.

Don't exercise an instant after you feel exhausted.

Don't forget to inhale slowly when performing any exercises.

Here are a few "don'ts" to bear in mind when performing any athletics:

Don't forget that every woman is as young as she looks; but she can not look young with a broken figure.

Don't use too much force; if exercise is too vigorous, you will be exhausted before you can complete it.

Don't exercise one part of the body too much and another part not at all; let the development be symmetrical.

Don't stand with the back bent over, the shoulders thrown forward, the head dropped, and the chest sunk in.

Don't exercise beyond the ability of the heart to keep pace with you. Palpitation is a certain indication of excess.

PERSONAL.

Dr. Steiner of Springfield, O., a Tolstorian disciple, is to write Tolstoy's biography.

Premier Balfour is a many sided man. Among his accomplishments is that of piano playing.

Mrs. Leland Stanford will erect a costly library building at the Leland Stanford Jr. university.

Booker T. Washington has added a number of Angora goats to his breeding farm at the Tuskegee institute.

The earl of Crawford is making a trip around the world on his own yacht, Valhalla, in the interest of natural history.

It is said that Adlai Dean, eighty-five years of age, who died lately in Boone county, Ky., was the last surviving veteran of the Mexican war.

The oldest armorer in the United States, still in the employ of the government, is Benjamin Hobbs of Springfield, Mass. He has been working there for more than fifty years.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

The foundation of civilization and the cement of moral society is the family idea crystallized in the home.—Rev. G. B. Starr, Baptist, Brooklyn, N. Y.

It is a good thing to be good, it is a better thing to be good for something. To be reckoned in the world's account as a cypher is a deplorable thought.—Rev. Dr. Blisbee, Universalist, Boston, Mass.

The law of Christian economics is that every man should seek the welfare of his brother, the law of pagan economics is every man for himself.—Rev. Dr. Bradford, Congregational, Montclair, N. J.

Religion means more than a hobby. It is not a social reform alone, and yet it includes all reforms. Neither a prohibitionist nor a preacher comes up to the great broad freedom of the wide truth the master announces.—Rev. C. W. Bird, Methodist, Atlanta, Ga.

A DESIRE.

If I had words at my command
But without hope alone I stand,
When lofty thought within me burn,
And blissful visions I discern,
If I had might to wield my pen
To give this knowledge unto men,
How happy would each moment be,
Could I but win this victory.
I'd sing the day through with the birds,
If I had words.
